Operating in Gold. The following is an extract of a letter said to to have been written by a member of the House from the "rural districts" to his father at home

As I turned into State street I met an elderly gentleman in spectacles, and I inquired of him where the operations in gold were mostly made, and he, somewhat tartly, as I thought (but then of course he didn't know I was a member of the House), cried out, "Over there, over there, in the news room. He pointed with his stick as he spoke, and at once crossed over and entered the place desig nated, and was passing through the gate leading to the news room, when I was politely, but somewhat abruptly, brought up with the question, "Are you a subscriber, sir?"

Not at all daunted, however, I threw myself back a little, and replied, "I am not a subscriber to your news room, sir, but I am a member of the House of Representatives the member, sir, from ---." "Oh, ah, yes!" was the rejoinder, and I walked in without further ado. And such a Babel as I found myself in! I went far ahead of our town meetings, and you know well what they are. There were voices in German, Hebrew, Irish, English, and I know not what else, all in a jabber at once, and all bidding and betting and selling as fast as their tongues could wag.

Crazed and confused, I retreated to a corner and there stood a listener to a wild, unearthly jargon, and an observer of the worn and wearied looking faces about me-the blood shot eye, the flush and fevered cheek. Some of them, at the 18th inst., I would say that I was severely afflicted with Catarrh for years, when I became acquainted with knock-down, but it passed off, seemingly, as a mere common-place affair.

"1'll give 205 to 10,000 !" cries one, "I'll sell 5,000 at 20516!" bawls another. "I'll bet $5 the next quotation will be 206 !" screams a third. And the beauty of the thing was, as I cast my eye about, it seemed as though I could buy out the entire crowd for a few hundred dollars, and yet here they are buying and selling their five BROWNING & SLOAN thousands and ten thousands of gold, and paper money, worth only fifty cents on a dollar!

But the thing was explained to me afterwards by a gentleman who boards at the house where l am stopping, and who seems well posted in such matters. He says: A sells B to-day $5,000 of gold at 205, deliverable to-morrow. Well, the gold at the price named would come to $10,250 in paper money, and you would very naturally suppose Mr. A. was a man of considerable means. Not so, however; four or five hundred dollars is, probably, the sum total of his capital. He expects, before 12 o'clock of the ensuing day, the price of gold will fall below 205, and he calls on Mr. B. to pay him over in greenbacks whatever the "difference may be." On the other hand, should the quotations rule over 205, Mr. A. must pay Mr. B. the "difference," whatever it may be in that case. So you see that not one | And the "only sure" and CERTAIN REMEDY for all dollar in gold passes through the hands of either | those afflict agcomplaints so peculiar to the sex, whethparty, and it may be a question whether Mr. A. or Mr. B. has set eyes upon one since you or I have-say some four years ago. And yet they buy and sell their thousands every day.

In Brazil, a man and his wife named Antonia and directions accompany each box. are doomed to kill your father and your mother," was the horrible prediction. Terrified by this tragical prospect, Melchoir fled from his home, went abroad and resolved never to see his parents again. After six years had passed he returned to Brazil, but established himself under a feigned name at Passagem, a place far distant from his native village. He grew rich and married a young and beautiful girl, of whom he was exceedingly fond and jealous. In the meantime his parents sought their lost son far and wide but | part of the city or country,) and for sale by in vain. At length an old negro who had long been in the family discovered the whereabouts of Melchoir, and informed his parents of it.

The old folks, without giving any previous no tice to their son, instantly set out to Passagem. They arrived at Melchoir's bouse, but he was absent from home. His wife, however, received them cordially. Finding them fatigued by their journey, she gave them her own bed to repose upon. The old couple retired, and the wife went out to seek her husband. While she was out her husband returned. He cailed his wife, and her husband returned. He cailed his wife, and HOWE."

From Advance Sheets of the American Life Insurance Magazine. This Magazine has the following statistics of life insurance in the United States:

The number of new policies issued by the twenty five life insurance companies in Massachusetts during the last year is reported to be 56,273; the whole number of policies outstanding or in actual force on November 1, 1864, was 145,776, insuring the aggregate amount of $380. 577,731 05. increase over the previous year 41, 549 policies, insuring $107,377,545 49. The policies terminated by death during the year were 1,181, insuring to the families of the deceased $3,211,919 60. Gross premiums received during the year $12,193,702 01; premiums received in cash $9,483,337 41; net pre mium reserve, exclusive of capital, $36,745, 628 80; guaranting the capital $2,124,000; in vestment in government securities $12.873,

It ought here to be observed that in addition to the twenty five companies referred to above. there are fourteen other life offices in operation producing Oil. in the United States at the present time, including three English companies; and these are estimated to insure an aggregate amount of $52,500, 000. If we add these figures to those above. then we have a grand aggregate of life insur-ance policies now in force, of 166,776, which insures to the widows and orphans, and other helpless dependents throughout the United States, apon the death of the insured, the magnificent and extraordinary sum of $433,077,731 95

A Singular Church Service.

The Boston Transcript has the following: Near the close of a sermon in an African church at Mitchellville, S. O., and just before the singing of the last hymn. General Littlefield, the military commandant of Hilton Head island, appeared on the platform in front of the pulpit and peared on the platform in front of the pulpit and gave the congregation a lecture on their want of attention to the sanitary condition of their vil. Bates House, up stairs. I wate rooms, second door. Side Meats, Smoked and Unsmoked Shoulders, Mess lage. He told them that a majority of the families were altogether indifferent as to personal trade. cleanliness, and that some of the houses were not fit for cattle to live in. He declared it to be bis intention, bereafter, to have those washed who would not wash themselves, and to compel families to clean their houses at least swice a week. He wound up his discourse by plainly informing his congregation that they had got to use more soap and water, and that he should ap point a commission to inspect them. After this

From this incident it may be inferred that the spiritual purity of the negroes in that vicinity has eceived more attention than their bodily clean-

SYMPTOMS:

The symptoms of Catarrh, as they generally appear, are at first very slight. Persons find they have a cold, that they have frequent attacks, and are more sensitive to the changes of temperature. In this condition, the nose may be dry, or a slight discharge, thin and acrid, afterwards becoming thick and adhesive. As the disease omes chronic, the discharges are increased in quantity and changed in quality; they are now thick and heavy, and are hawked or coughed off. The secretions are of-fensive, causing a bad breath; the voice is thick and nasal; the eyes are weak; the sense of the smell is lessened or destroyed; deafness frequently takes place. Another common and important symptom of Catarrh is, that the person is obliged to clear his throat in the morning of a thick or alimy mucus, which has fallen down from the head during the night. When this takes place the person may be sure that his disease is on its way to the lungs, and should lose no time in arresting it. The above are but few of the many Catarrh symptoms.

Single Bottle will last a Month-to be used three times a day.

TESTIMONIAL From Hon. Themas J. Turner, Ex-Member of Congress rom Illinios, late Speaker of the Illinois House of Rep-resentatives, and Grand Master of A. F., and A. M., of the State of Illinois.

FREEFORT, October 21, 1863. DR. D. H. SRELYE-Dear Sir. In reply to your notice of times, seemed near coming to blows, so high ran their voices, and so fast and fierce were their gesticulations.
